ABOUT ME...

I am a writer, editor, wife and three-time boy mom. I grew up in New England, but have lived all over the country with my now-retired military family, finally setting in Central Florida. A love for photography and travel courses through my veins and I love to advocate for those who are managing food allergies. I share our family's adventures on the blog, hoping to encourage, educate, motivate and inspire others to not be afraid to live life to the fullest.

ABOUT THE BLOG...

Footprints in Pixie Dust is a family and travel site designed to encourage and empower families to travel, especially those families who may be managing food allergies. By sharing accommodating destinations we've visited and food allergy safe products we've used, I hope to encourage, motivate, inspire and educate others to open their hearts to explore and find the magic in every step of the journey.
